The original Pac-Man concept game has been given a cannibal evolution: eliminate your opponents by eating them and another standing Pac-Man wins round. When players eat the energy pellet, they power up by doubling in size and increasing in speed. Once powered, they are now able to eat non-powered blue players and ghosts. Players of the same size simply bounce off each other. Players can also be eliminated by running into ghosts if there are no even powered players. Eating a piece of fruit or all of the pellets brings back the maze with a new set of power pellets. At the end of the game, statistics are displayed for each player like won most rounds and ate most pac-man, etc. The game is simple, competitive, and highly addictive.
